

The Plot to Use the Law to Destroy Christians

(Blog 0012 AndrewHadden.com)

I am going to speak on a topic for which many will think I need to justify my right, and my expertise, to speak about. First, let me say that the law, and especially the Constitution, is not rocket science (and I have a math minor with three semesters of calculus and I earned thirty semester hours of physics and chemistry). Our Constitution was written in pretty plain language, the language of many of the people, and does not contain many Latin terms you have to look up in a legal dictionary. Latin terms are used in law and medicine because much of western civilization was built upon a foundation from the Roman Empire, and they spoke Latin. Scholars, long after Rome fell, continued to study Latin so they could read their books, written in Latin. And Latin was handy because Latin is now a “dead” language – it is no longer being spoken broadly such that its words and meanings are not put to new uses and transformed over time. It is the Church that continues to speak some Latin, in recitations in religious ceremonies, where the words and meanings are quite fixed.

That leads me to my next point. There are serious professionals in our society that have a LOT more experience than our lawyers at transmitting law intact in its text, and its meaning, than the legal profession does. They are in the Church, as Bible scholars and theologians. Our lawyers deal with a foundational document that is less than three hundred years old. Bible scholars and theologians deal with texts that are several thousand years old. So, roughly, that is ten times the experience of our lawyers who are dealing with the Constitution. Bible scholars and theologians generally have studied what is called “historical theology” and what is called “hermeneutics.” Historical theology looks at the beginnings of teachings, doctrines, and how they were developed and spread over time. Historical theology can be very helpful for understanding the original intent of those spreading a teaching, what it meant to start with, and what it has come to mean today, by those that hold that teaching, that doctrine.

Hermeneutics is the science of interpreting literature, especially ancient literature, and, as understood today, in particular, the Bible. If you combine historical theology and hermeneutics you can get to why people believe what they believe today. And you see that there is also a historical theology of errors, pollutions of the truth, fabrications – lies – claiming the authority of scripture, of God himself, but not accurately reflecting the truth. The truth needs defended against those that would pervert and pollute it. And that is where Bible scholars and theologians have a lot more experience to bring to the table than any constitutional lawyer alive today. The Church, if they are honest and recognize the wreckage of the past, included people with “authority,” by no means from God, who tried to force errors and deceptions on the rest of us. And they used, and justified, by coercion, methods of interpreting God’s law, the Bible, that allowed them to say that God’s law meant whatever was advantageous to their wicked desires. That is exactly where we are with the United States Supreme Court and the federal court system.

How did the Church clean up the mess of people claiming “authority” to pervert God’s law in ways advantageous to their own wicked desires? Reform – starting with rejecting methods of interpreting scripture that were not honest or valid. They anchored their interpretation in what the words meant to the people to whom it was addressed at the time it was spoken or written (if it was written down initially), and what it meant to the authors. Words change in meaning over time, if the language is still being spoken or written. If you are going to use a dictionary, you have to use one from the time when the words were spoken or written. If you can't find a dictionary from that period, you look elsewhere in that period, in that culture, for what the words meant in those other sources. It is dishonest to choose a meaning from today, or some other period, removed from when the words were originally spoken or written. And it is more complicated today, because giant media companies with a wicked agenda have bought the companies that we used to trust to publish honest dictionaries based on the actual broad usage of the words among everyday people. Now they change the definition of words to suit their political and immoral objectives – despite how much it upsets the vast majority of the people who do not agree with them.

But what do we have today? In our “elite” educational institutions (elite being defined by those that want to claim eliteness for themselves), our future lawyers and judges are being taught that the Constitution is a “living document” and that, as elite lawyers and judges, they are free to change the meaning of its words, and concepts, to support whatever change they want to force on the rest of the country. (But they are probably not this honest about their motives.) This is the opposite of what the Church learned in its long and painful history, and what our founding fathers knew well – because many came to America to find religious freedom from that kind of tyranny in the state churches of Europe, as enforced by the governments of Europe. Many a reformer of the Church in Europe was burned at the stake for trying to worship and obey God as the Bible actually clearly indicated. That creates a long cultural memory – that the United States once had, and needs to regain.

There is a lot of intimidation going on today. It is a tool used to silence one's enemies – and it is straight out of the playbook of Nazi Germany, the most occult-centered government in modern history. And it is working – but we must stand up against it or the people using it today will use it the same way Hitler used it, and we will end up in the death camps and execution machines of the future. I am not exaggerating. Hear me out.

The true, Bible-observing, Christian Church is being portrayed as evil and unworthy of membership in society – and this is in a society not long ago considered around eighty percent Christian. A small percentage of people, in control of the media, and therefore in control of who can get elected to government office, are doing it. About two percent of the people are plotting the marginalization of the majority of the people – and it is working, so far. We must stand up against it now, or we will soon lose the ability to stand up against it. They are doing it with labels and slanderous accusations that immediately intimidate, that make one fearful to stand up against it. That was exactly their evident plan – “demonize” your enemies, make them seem as evil as demons. But our enemies are demonized, in the literal sense. They are pursuing one of Satan's plans to exterminate Christians from the earth. (I say plans because Satan has more than one.) I am not exaggerating and I am not kidding. I am an eyewitness to the greatest evils in our society and they are being perpetrated by those that worship and serve Satan in secret. They know only Christians have the authority in the spiritual realm to resist their goals to enslave all of mankind – using spiritual, demonic, methods at the center of their efforts.

I had most of the above written for more than six months when God gave me a realization, and affirmed it in the strongest possible terms, that what is really going on is that these enemies of Christians are not just seeking to figuratively “demonize” Christians, as in label and portray them as terrible people, unfit to be members of society, or even to be allowed to live. They are also seeking to literally demonize them with real live spiritual entities that can control people – so they can use their occult activities and powers to really control them. But, before you throw up a barrier to what I am saying, because you have been conditioned to see anything to do with demons as “fairy tales” or “mythical” nonsense, let me explain my professional credentials and experience to be able to speak authoritatively on the subject.

I have the credentials and experience to have been accepted into an international professional society of deliverance ministers – people who cast out demons for a living, exorcists. I am a seminary graduate in Bible. Then I studied the books, even textbooks, of deliverance ministers, and related academics for many years. I have been published by a major denomination on the topic of praying against demons – “spiritual warfare” to deliver people from the control of Satan and demons, so that they can come to Christ and be “saved” from eternal judgment. The head of the denomination’s commission on evangelism asked my permission to use what I wrote in their efforts to bring people to Christ.

I taught on spiritual warfare and deliverance (a topic including exorcism) for a year in a large church, in a class that grew larger than our denomination’s average church size, and had leaders of ministers and missionaries in the class. And I personally cast demons out of a professing Satanist that came to that church for help. I also talked to some of the world’s leading experts in the field, from leading ministries, personally, about the subject of Christians being susceptible to demonic influence, control, and to be demonized – to have demons enter them and need them cast out. And my wife and I grew up victimized by Satanists and the Illuminati and had to overcome all the things they do to control people outside their conscious awareness, through demonic and psychological methods. And I have helped others and been told their experiences and knowledge, and heard and read the accounts of the perpetrators in these cults who came to believe in Christ and are now exposing these cults with inside knowledge of what they do.

But I have another credential, one far more important. I am one sent by God to live a life of great trial, exposed to great evil from birth, to be able to expose it for the sake of God’s people in the end times, which these times now are. I am one of God’s eyewitnesses. God had to put me through great evil, and teach me to recognize and overcome it, to make me able to stand against all that can come against one who fights against Satan’s most protected plans. God has taught me and told me in detail how to expose this great evil. If you ignore this warning, it is to the peril of your lives, and the lives of your loved ones, and your soul and their souls as well.

When I first learned spiritual warfare, it was from missionaries, when I was in training to potentially be a missionary. They said they had to look far and wide for a book on spiritual warfare. A few years later, there were hundreds of such books. Now there are many more. I will try to explain spiritual warfare very concisely, for those knowing little or nothing of it. God created the heavens and the earth. The heavenly realm had spiritual beings including angels, named by their function, meaning sent ones or messengers. Other spiritual beings had the same nature, but a different function, who were tasked to watch over mankind, and were sometimes called watchers. But the term “angels” gets used loosely to refer to all spiritual beings other than God. Satan and one third of those loosely called angels rebelled against God and have been attempting to thwart his purposes ever since. Satan famously got man to disobey/rebel as well. Man had authority over the earth but lost his authority to Satan because sinning puts one under the power of the leader of the sinning angels, Satan. The Apostle Paul pointed out that we are servants to those we choose to obey (See Romans 6:15). Since Satan leads people to sin, when we sin, we are obeying him and become his servants – whether we wanted to or not. The spiritual realm works on this kind of legal system. Sinning puts us under Satan's power.

Christ came to give many a way for the penalty of their sins to be paid by his sacrificial death on the cross – if we accept and believe in his sacrifice to save us, and allow him to become not just our Savior, but our Lord. We either serve Christ or we are serving Satan. If we serve Christ, we are to ask for forgiveness in Jesus' name for our sins, and accept that Christ's blood paid the penalty for our sin, and makes us righteous again in God's eyes – and in the legal system of the spiritual realm. But that spiritual legal system works against us if we willfully keep sinning and not asking forgiveness. The Lord's prayer does use the word "daily" and include asking forgiveness. It also speaks of forgiving those who have sinned against us. These two things cover the things that most commonly cause demons to have the right to harass, oppress, and even inhabit us – sins we have not repented of and asked forgiveness for, and unforgiveness toward offenses of others against us. Christ clearly stated that if we do not forgive others, God will not forgive us.

There is another category of sin that gives demons a legal right to oppress us or worse – involving ourselves in occult practices and occult worship. Asking demons to help us, through gaining knowledge from a spiritual being other than God, or through trying to get power over others (through curses and spells) is like a vow of allegiance to Satan. These sins must be both repented of to God and renounced, basically the reverse of allegiance – stating that you renounce having ever asked Satan or his demons for help of any kind or having given them worship or reverence of any kind.

Sexual sin causes another way for demons to trouble people. The Bible says that those who have sexual intercourse become "one flesh." Christ said this regarding marriage:

4 And He answered and said to them, "Have you not read that He who made them at the beginning 'made them male and female,' 5 and said, 'For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh'? 6 So then, they are no longer two but one flesh. Therefore what God has joined together, let not man separate" (Matt 19:4-6 NKJV)

The Apostle Paul indicated the same thing happens with illicit sex, outside of marriage:

15 Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ? Shall I then take the members of Christ and make them members of a harlot? Certainly not! 16 Or do you not know that he who is joined to a harlot is one body with her? For "the two," He says, "shall become one flesh." 17 But he who is joined to the Lord is one spirit with Him (1 Cor 6:15-17 NKJV).

That is the effect in the spiritual realm of having sex with someone, becoming “one flesh,” or “one body” with them from then on. Your body and their body are joined until something happens to break that bond, that joining. What is the effect of being “one flesh” with every person you have had sex with? Any demon they somehow invite into themselves also has the right to come into any person they have ever had sex with. If each person has sex a few times with a few people before their monogamous marriage, and never deals with these open channels for demons to come oppress or possess a person, there quickly becomes a matrix of thousands of people joined in a way that allows free access to oppress or possess them. (Some call these open channels, “soul ties.”) There are millions of people secretly involved in the occult in America, and all over the world as well. They deliberately invite many demons into themselves. If one of them has sex with anyone in this joined matrix, those demons then have access to everybody in that matrix. Now, do you see why God has rules about sex? He is protecting us from terrible consequences we did not understand.

But let me explain something. Most demons are content to manipulate people outside their conscious awareness. They like to remain hidden, whether in, on, or around a person, but still control and wreck people’s lives. And having demons cast out can be a fairly calm and quiet process. The possessions Hollywood movies portray with heads spinning on people’s shoulders, or people floating above the bed, are distorted and exaggerated to entertain – or for darker purposes. If having a demon is always portrayed as involving some horrific display of evil power, people will conclude that they have never been around a person with a demon in them, and could not possibly have one themselves. That deception serves Satan’s purposes well to accomplish control over everyone with demons that hide – until absolute control is accomplished over everyone they can deceive.

What do demons typically do? They can impose any human emotion, in any degree that serves their purposes – anger, illicit sexual desire, depression, overwhelming hurt, overwhelming hopelessness, offense, confusion, fear, etc. They can also impose thoughts into a person’s head, nudging them toward sin or self-destruction – suicide. And demons are artful at making people think that the thoughts they insert are their own – by putting the thoughts in forms like, “I think I want to . . .” or “I’m so tired of . . .” Thus, they can destroy relationships, marriages, and people. Demons can also be capable of imposing sicknesses and physical conditions, as we see in accounts of the ministry of Jesus delivering those afflicted in the Bible.

The medieval Church used to have people go through all kinds of deliverance, getting rid of demons, when they first came into the Church. Much of the Church today has lost sight of that need. To deal with these open channels from having become “one flesh” with everyone one has had sex with, there are prayers one can pray that I will explain. Since some claim you can break those soul ties, and others claim only God can break those soul ties, I pray both ways. I have people start with a collective prayer, like “I break all the soul ties with all the people I have had sex with outside of my current marriage, and, God, I ask you to break them in Jesus’ name.” Then, I have people pray through each soul tie with each specific person saying, “I break the soul tie with [insert name] and, God, I ask you to break it, in Jesus’ name.”

Once you have done these things, your authority to command them to leave and leave you alone, given to those allied with Christ, is restored. When you have not prayed to repent and renounce sins, and involvement in any occult practice or worship, demons may leave temporarily, but they will not stay away because our sins give them a right to be in, on, or around us. Our unrepented or unrenounced sins are considered the “open doors” or “claims” or “grounds” of the demonic spirits that seek to trouble us.

Now, let us talk about what those that secretly serve Satan are trying to do to Christians.

Their spells and curses are not their personal “awesome” power, as they would have you believe. All they do is done by demons, not them. Christians can bind demons by simply speaking it, and command demons to leave – leaving attacking witches and sorcerers powerless and embarrassed. Hence, they hate Christians and want them all dead or under their power. How can they put Christians under their power? They can trick them into sinning, or use the law to force them to sin in a way that makes them vulnerable due to “open doors,” or “claims,” or “grounds.” Then they have a way to control us outside our conscious awareness with spells, etc. (I have seen demons make someone fall into a deep slumber on command due to a spell.) Or we can be made vulnerable to their curses they want to use to kill us or afflict us. (I have many times commanded demons to leave or stop, that were rendering a victim unable to speak or breathe.)

Occult practitioners will also attack people outside of their conscious awareness, or recollection. They start by brutally traumatizing and raping babies and young children. The trauma causes them to suppress the memory, and the rape is an easy way to directly transfer demons into the child – using that principle of sex making people “one flesh.” The more sophisticated practitioners also know how to split the child’s personality by this trauma, and create another personality/identity in them they do not know they have. Then that personality can be brought to conscious control of the person, using code words they hypnotically program into them. Then they have a way to keep a person under the control of their sorcery for a lifetime – and they even make them an obedient member of their occult group and with the person never knowing they are in a cult, in the only personality they know they have. The person basically ends up with daytime and nighttime personalities, as different as night and day, and never knowing it. This has even and especially been used on ministers’ families – for generations. This helps render pastors unable to effectively function in the power of God and never knowing why. (See my blog, Ritual Abuse and Mind Control” on www.andrewhadden.org for more on this).

There is another step one can take that will be of great help. That is to invite the Holy Spirit, the third person of the Trinity, to come into you. The Bible speaks of people being filled with the Holy Spirit. It is needful to really walk in the spiritual power we were meant to have against the spiritual forces of evil that come against us. The Holy Spirit provides peace, comfort, power, and many helps to us. Christ indicated he was leaving so that the Holy Spirit could come. It had to be important. For more on these things, read the biblical books of Acts and Ephesians, and First Corinthians chapters 12 and 14. One of the gifts of the Holy Spirit is the gift of “discerning of spirits” which is of much help in helping people get free from demonic spirits.

So, what does God say about all this? That is a role I find myself in, in obedience and not by my choice – telling people what God has to say, even about very controversial issues. On April 16, 2023, just before I wrote this, I recorded in my spiritual journal something noting:

- (1) The Supreme Court decision to interpret the civil rights law written to protect women from being treated unfairly by banning discrimination based on “sex,” plainly meaning, to everyone involved, biological sex at birth, to now mean every imaginable sexual desire or preference of any kind – and protect them all, with severe penalties,

Along with

- (2) Company policies requiring Christians to affirm all such behavior vocally, is designed to force Christians not to just tolerate what the Bible calls perversion and abomination to God, but to also speak affirmation of it, and is likely designed to force Christians to sin and provide an open door, a vulnerability to demonic control. Then I heard God say,

You got it. Absolutely – their plot – force sin that makes my people vulnerable to their sorcery, demonic control. Tell the world – expose it, shout it, accuse, accuse, accuse. Show the real nature of their plot – control of the world through demons and sorcery.

Then I noted there was no other way they could do this, but to change the civil rights law such that as soon as the Supreme Court decree comes out, it is basically illegal to object – and carries severe penalties instantly. I had also noted that Justice Clarence Thomas, a true Christian who dissented to this decision, had noted that those in the majority were labeling Christians as “bigots” (for sincerely held religious beliefs). And this is clearly progressing toward eliminating Christians from employment anywhere, and especially from any position of leadership. This is wholesale persecution of the majority of the population, based on religious belief, and persecution by a vicious and evil tiny minority of the population, those that secretly, brutally abuse children in order to manipulate, control, and use them, and conduct human sacrifice of unwilling victims to obtain power over others. Of these things I am an eyewitness. Anyone calling this “conspiracy theory” is, in so doing, presenting the proof that they are likely involved in the plot.

I have obeyed God to warn. Now please prayerfully consider what God would have you do.
